Lexicon Featured in National Law Journal's Legal Technology Trailblazer List.

Lexicon is recognized for the company's innovative solutions bringing change to the legal tech industry.

ST. LOUIS (February 1, 2022) — St. Louis-based legal technology and services provider Lexicon has been recognized as an innovator and changemaker by National Law Journal. Lexicon was named in the publication's Legal Technology Trailblazers, a list that recognizes companies and products that are truly agents of change.

The National Law Journal reports legal information of national importance to attorneys, including federal circuit court decisions, verdicts, practitioners' columns, coverage of legislative issues and legal news for the business and private sectors. Lexicon's inclusion in the periodical's list highlights the company's experience and use of innovation to help ease the daily tasks taken on by law firms and legal departments.

"We're honored that the National Law Journal has named Lexicon to the Legal Technology Trailblazers list," said Dan Cuneo, Lexicon CEO. "This recognition aligns with Lexicon's recently expanded suite of services and with our company's mission to liberate law firms to do more of what they do best - focus on practicing law."

Cuneo is available for interviews to discuss Lexicon's expanded suite of support services, its practice management software, and what the company has planned for 2022 and beyond.
