

The Evolution of Ex Judicata

exjudicata.com is about to surpass 200,000 unique users in the 2 years since going live. In just this short period, the company has already added 2 brand extensions:

EXJ Search and EXJ Community.

Ex Judicata was launched to serve the growing number of lawyers seeking to transition to nonlegal careers. The company provides information, training and resources to prepare JDs for making a move. We also have the only Job Board where 100% of the positions are nonlegal roles for lawyers.

Shortly after debuting, Ex Judicata began receiving requests from organizations seeking to hire lawyers for nonlegal jobs requiring a particular skill set and background not found on Job Boards. In other words, traditional executive search.

In response, the company created EXJ Search. To date the company has placed lawyers into newly created nonlegal jobs at companies including Lockton; Guide Post Solutions and Marsh McLennan

Having established itself as the destination website for lawyers and law students considering, or committed, to leaving law for new careers. the goal of the EXJ Community is even more ambitious—to create the first-ever community for the several hundred thousand JDs already working in nonlegal careers.

A place where non-practicing lawyers (NPLs) across myriad careers and multiple industries can come together to network, build relationships, offer support and guidance to one another, discuss career strategies for advancement and trade best practices for business development.

A network of lawyers who share a common bond and understand the unique challenges and advantages of having a law degree as a foundation for success in their chosen nonlegal career.

The EXJ Community goes live September 2025
